HARRISON AND ROBERTS SHAKE
...after city votes are counted at fire station poll.

Jerry Roberts Wins City Seat As Harrison, Altman Face Runoff

When Jerry Roberts won his first-ever bid for a city commission seat Tuesday by defeating incumbent W.R. "Ralph" Kirk 1,008-889, he said it represented a pardon by the entire community.

"When I was acquitted by the courts of extortion in 1971," Roberts said, "the black community found me not guilty as well. "But today I had a lot of white votes," he said. "It demonstrates the entire community has given me a pardon from 1971."

Roberts was one of several members of Cry of Black Youth (COBY), which he organized, who were tried and acquitted on charges of extorting funds from local businessmen.

Roberts joins City Commissioner William Greer as the second black city commissioner ever elected by the city voters and the two could be joined by a third following next Tuesday's runoff between Eugene Harrison and Thomas Altman.

Harrison will be fighting his second runoff campaign for the city commission in two years, having opposed incumbent at-large commissioner John Grady the last two times Grady ran for office.

Harrison lost in last year's runoff in a four-way race but managed to pull more voters Tuesday than anyone else on the ballot.

He took a total of 1,064 votes compared to the 656 Altman gathered and 451 for Earl Armstrong (who was eliminated in the four-way race last year) and N.B. Willis' 68. This was also Willis' second unsuccessful attempt to gain city office.

Altman is a political newcomer—but he isn't a newcomer when it comes to being involved in city government. He has been an assistant to City Manager William Malley for more than two years, since graduating from Florida State University.

"I'm going to go home," the 23-year old Altman said after the election Tuesday, "take a hot shower, have a scotch and water and get up again at 5 a.m. tomorrow (Wednesday) to start campaigning. It's going to be work, work, work. I'm going to get out and meet all the people I can."

The political newcomer said yesterday, while greeting voters approaching the city polling place at the fire station, he has found it awkward, "waking up to people and asking them to vote for me."

"I've got to work twice as hard now," Harrison said Tuesday night. "I felt I would be in a runoff with either Armstrong or Altman."

Roberts said he, "was really, really happy to see that lead over Kirk on the first machine (213-177)." He was standing behind the machine, smiling at his many supporters outside the fire station and raised his right fist in the traditional black power salute when he read the results directly off the machine.

"The people didn't just vote for Jerry Roberts," he said later. "They are looking for a commissioner who will do something. Kirk had his chance and now they're going to give me a chance. If I don't do the job, they will get rid of me just like they got rid of Kirk."

Roberts named, "a complete recreational program for the children," and a good sewer system as the top priority programs he intends to work on.

Asked how he felt about the proposed city hall the city commission has been discussing with a view toward reducing the $1,066 million price tag placed on the sole bid, he said he was against it.

"They can operate from a tent as far as I'm concerned," he said. "We don't need shooting fountains and pools (A $7,000 "dry" fountain was included in the original plans and was one of the first items the contractor suggested to be taken off, the plans to pare costs.)

"I'm in favor of letting some of these civic clubs that like to beautify the community plant the shrubs around it," Roberts said. "There are more important things than a new city hall."

"Now the number one things are for survival," he said, "housing, employment, recreation and good health services for all."

Camp?

What Camp?

A delegation of residents from the northeast section of Belle Glade found when they appeared before the city commission to protest the opening of a labor camp, if one is proposed, the city may not have the power to help them.

During the meeting Monday night, when the delegation presented a petition of 76 names protesting the labor camp, no one seemed to know just what Kenneth Perkins, owner of a rooming house just north of Lake Hardware, really had in mind.

City Building Inspector Garth Lewis said Tuesday he had talked to Perkins and said Perkins told him he was only improving the rooming house.

But City Attorney John Baker said Monday night he didn't think the city could stop Perkins should he want to let rooms in the rooming house to his workers.

"Under the present zoning ordinance," Baker said, "I don't know if we have a classification for labor camps. There is no distinction between a labor camp and a lodging house."

"It's presently a rooming house," Grady said. "If it had been used as a rooming house and the present owner wants to rent rooms out to his employees, there is nothing we can do."

"Of course," he told the petitioners, "if it becomes a nuisance, if they're terrorizing the neighborhood, then it becomes a police problem."

Dr. Grady To be on Ballot

As voters statewide selected Jack Eckard Tuesday to be the Republican nominee for the U.S. Senate race in November, and Democrats sent Bill Guter into a runoff with either Richard Pettigrew or Richard Stone, Dr. John Grady received official notice he would also be on the ballot.

Grady said Wednesday morning he received a telephone call Tuesday afternoon, even as voters were streaming to the polls, from Florida Superior of Elections Dorothy Gilson.

He said Mrs. Gilson didn't give him an official tally of the number of signatures to a statewide petition to have the American Party placed on the general election ballot, which had been validated but he had received more than enough.

"We gathered about 130,000 signatures to the ballot," the Belle Glade physician said, "and at the last count, about 107,000 had been validated."

"Now the people will have a clear choice in November," Grady added.

The American Party decided in January it wanted Grady to represent the party in the U.S. Senate race for the seat now occupied by Sen.

Letter Earns Doubled Fine

A St. Petersburg man about parked a $25 traffic violation into a 50-day jail sentence recently, and did manage to get his fine doubled, by writing an insubstantial letter accusing Palm Beach County of operating a speed trap.

The letter was mailed July 25 by Bobbie B. Harris after being stopped by Florida Highway Patrol Trooper Paul J. Jones a few miles north of South Bay for traveling 70 miles per hour in a 55 mile per hour zone.

"The arresting officer of our fine Highway Patrol was very polite," Harris wrote. "I was reduced to tears by the 50-day jail sentence with the 1970's."

"I have noticed this speed trap many times. It is on some of the main highways in Florida. Let's put our tax dollars to work, patrolling (sic) 27 where it is a real dangerous road, two lanes, not six. Quit fining the public. Your backward county has always had the bloodiest stretch of highway 827 until you divided it."

"So here is your $25," Harris wrote, "and UP YOURS!"

He went on to say, in the letter received and read in court by County Judge Don Adams, that a $25 minimum fine for 70 miles per hour, "shows me you have a license to steal. Your county will win no prize for respect of the law, but for operating speed traps."

Adams' response, when he received the letter, was to return the $25 check to Harris and tell him in a letter Adams would issue a capias should Harris fail to appear.

When Harris appeared before Adams Tuesday, the judge, who presides over the Glades extension of the county court, read the letter aloud.

Harris apologized and said he had written the letter in a moment of anger. Adams ordered him to pay a $50 fine instead of the $25 he would normally pay for driving 70 miles per hour in a 55 mile per hour zone.

"I seriously considered treating it as a contempt case," Adams said later, "with a 30-day jail sentence. I would have had to be apologetic."

"He was the very picture of apology, though," Adams said, "and he heaped praise on the officer. I probably embarrassed him but I was hoping it would serve as a lesson to others."

Adams said he couldn't understand how Harris US27 is a six-lane highway when he was stopped. US27 is court by County Judge Don Adams, that a $25 minimum fine for 70 miles per hour, "shows me you have a license to steal. Your county will win no prize for respect of the law, but for operating speed traps."

Sam Adams a Jittery Devil?

By Jerome Turk & Edw. Walsh

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 12, 1974 - To his bitter opponents at the first continental Congress, Samuel Adams must appear as a kind of jittery Machiavellian devil.

Adams speaks rarely on the floor at Carpenters Hall. He has headed advice to cool his reputation as a Boston rebel-leader and radical, which preceded him here.

A relatively poor man, Sam Adams nevertheless arrived in style. He was aboard a handsome four-horse carriage with liveried attendants & he was replete in a new suit, new hat & new wig - all donated by friends.

By day, Sam Adams keeps a low profile, aside from the flurry of correspondence he sends & receives by special couriers from Massachusetts.

By evening in the taverns and parlors of America's largest city, Adams moves both shakily & surely in his element.

The stocky 52-year-old Bostonian has palsy. The quiver of his head & hands is compounded by the dancing candlelight to create a bizarre scene, as Adams corners key Virginia representatives, hoping to get them to lead Congressional support for emboldened Boston. Grady shadows play on that volcano face belied with strong brows overhanging penetrating blue eyes.

"He eats little, drinks little, sleeps little, thinks much & is most decisive & indefatigable in the pursuit of his objects," says Joseph Galloway of Pennsylvania, who is emerging as the leader of the loyalist faction at this assembly.

Unlike most of the delegates including Galloway, Samuel Adams seems to seek neither fame nor fortune for his political efforts. He has a history of failure, but not as a politician. A graduate of Harvard (40) he failed as a merchant & did such a lax & lenient job over eight years as His Majesty's tax collector that he was accused of embezzling 7,000 pounds.

Adams has been a thorn in the side of British authorities in Massachusetts for years. Yet Gen. Thomas Gage, the current military governor, discovered that he cannot be bribed with a civil appointment nor turned back from his unrelenting attacks on British oppression.

It's true that Samuel Adams "eats little and drinks little" but it's equally true that his more convivial cousin, John, 38, doesn't always resemble Sam in those habits at the extravagant dinners given by open-minded Philadelphians.

A few evenings ago, long after Sam had said goodnight, John remained to enjoy the party. Later, the younger Adams cordially invited us to stop by at the lodgings of the Massachusetts man.

Punt, Pass, Kick

Applications to enter the annual punt, pass and kick competition, scheduled for 10:30 a.m. Oct. 5 this year, are now being accepted at Watson Ford.

Watson Ford salesman Clarence Throp said the competition will be divided into six age groups representing youngsters ranging in ages from 8 to 13.

"The contestants will have to wear tennis shoes this year," Throp said. "That's what the rules call for if the winners progress past the local level so we're going to make the same requirement."

He said no money is involved in the competition but those placing first, second or third in their age group will receive trophies and five first place winners will go on to further eliminations.

Punt, pass and kick is sponsored annually by the Ford Motor Co. and the contents measure the accuracy and range of the competitors in their ability to punt, pass and kick a football.

Voters Wait Turn

Crowd of last-minute city voters stand in line at Belle Glade Fire Station to take their turns at the voting machines as closing time nears. After the vote is tallied.

In line voted, many of them waited to hear the results as poll workers read the machines and tallied absentee ballots to find the winners in two races.

Chrysler Introduces New Cordoba

A "small" Chrysler with a new nameplate—Cordoba—will debut in model 1975 as a fresh competitor in the rapidly expanding intermediate specialty car market. It was announced by Frank Green of Frank Green Chrysler Plymouth Dodge in Belle Glade earlier this week.

"Cordoba, a two door hatchback built on a 115-inch wheelbase, is a mid-sized personal luxury automobile designed to reflect the Chrysler name and heritage of fine road cars," said Green.

The new entry, contrasting the 124-inch wheelbase of the Chrysler Newport, New Yorker and Imperial, is aimed at a market segment where the average buyer is in his early thirties—70 per cent are under 40-of upper income and distinctive styling is a prime consideration.

"The intermediate specialty segment is one of the fastest growing in the industry. It accounted for 2.4 per cent of industry's total in 1970, jumped to 7.6 per cent by 1973, and is expected to reach 9.6 by the end of 1974.

"It is predicted that sales in this sector will reach 11.6 per cent of all industry sales in 1975," Green said.

"The intermediate specialties are currently making up about 36 per cent of all intermediate sales and are expected to total about 41 per cent in the new model year.

"Our all new Cordoba is an exciting departure from tradition for Chrysler and its dealers. It will be a top contender in this market."

Cordoba is 215.3 inches long, 77 inches wide, and 63 inches high. Other dimensions include track, front: 61.9, rear: 62"; head room, front: 37.7; rear, 36.6; shoulder room, 61.2; leg room, front: 41.9; rear: 33.9.

Styling is reminiscent of the elegant, classic Chrysler road cars of the early thirties, but decidedly contemporary with long hood, short rear deck, massive bright grille which extends below the integrated bumper, and huge, single headlights.

The carries the grille's rectangular theme to the windshield and drops on either side to blend with separate, rounded tapering shapes, which house headlights and parking/turn signals.

Front peaked fender sculpturing extends into the door area to accent flowing lines of side sheet metal and the sloping rear deck drops sharply to continue the chiseled, rectangular theme of the frontal area. Large, single rectangular taillights are set vertically to compliment the distinctive rear deck.

Cordoba's roof features opera windows. Exterior opera lights are mounted on the center roof pillar for an added look of luxury. Optional Landau or Halo vinyl roofs are offered in seven colors and there is a wide choice of 20 body colors.

Interiors are plush with a choice of either crushed velour upholstery or combination broadcloth and vinyl in bench seats with center arm rest and there is a special velour print option called "Castilian." Combination leather and vinyl bucket seats with center seat cushion and folding arm rest are also optional.

The full-gauge instrument panel is not only designed for function and appearance, but for practical ease of serviceability.

All heater and air conditioning controls, radio, gauges, and switches can be removed for replacement or repair from the face of the instrument panel. Easy access to fuses is provided by a hinged, swing-down fuse block under the panel.

Commission Discuss Library

City Manager William Mallery said the city library staff is having a problem maintaining discipline in the library.

Mallery said the problem seems to stem from the unruly behavior of children and teenagers while in the library and said the main problem has been removed because staff members thought it was a factor in the problem.

Under questioning by the commissioners, Mallery said the librarians, Mrs. Elizabeth Lalovics, and her staff, had reported the problem in some times gets beyond their ability to cope with it.

"I really don't think this is a commission problem," Grady said. "Use discipline where possible. If that doesn't work, throw them out, and if they refuse to go, call the police."

"I wonder if they're mad," he quipped. "because Mr. (Commissioner Bill) Bailey wouldn't put their favorite publicist on the shelves."

Grady was referring to the commission's refusal some two years ago to allow the library to subscribe to such publications as Playboy Magazine.

In another problem area, the commission failed to take action on whether or not the city should sweep up private parking lots.

After discussing the proposed rate of $15 per hour for sweeping lots made by Mallery after being directed at the last commission meeting to make a study of what the city should charge. Commissioner Ralph Kirk moved to check with businesses in town to see if they would pay a reasonable charge to have their lots swept.

The motion failed for lack of a second after each of the four commissioners present expressed a different attitude from the other three.

Commissioner Bill Bailey said he wasn't in favor of using city equipment to make the sweep while Grady said he wasn't in favor of it unless he could be shown the city street sweeper has enough time after doing the streets.

Mayor Aubrey Farmer repeated his views from the last meeting. He said he feels the city should sweep the lots at no charge, basing his argument on the fact the city mows grass in vacant lots at no charge.

"We're going to wind up with big piles of trash in the parking lots anyway," he argued, "and they're going to sweep it into the streets anyway for us to clean up."

Kirk said he thought the city should offer the service but should make "a reasonable charge" for it and should also charge for mowing vacant lots. In other action, the commission:

•Agreed, almost as an afterthought, to purchase the Hugo Theatre property on West Avenue from Gold-Dobrow, Inc. of Pahokee for one dollar.

•Authorized the city attorney, the city manager and the city finance director to meet with representatives of Pierce, Wulbern, Murphy, Inc. investment bankers based in Orlando, to work out the details of an agreement for the firm to act as the city's fiscal agent in a proposed bond issue of approximately $2.5 million.

The bond issue will be floated for the purpose of improving the city's sewer and water systems.

City Attorney John Baker said the letter of agreement he recently received from the firm is a professional instrument meant to cover only a broad outline of the agreement.

Baker said this type of agreement couldn't be reduced to black and white on an agreement; that it would call for mutual understanding and confidence both parties would act with integrity.

•Passed a resolution establishing an Airport Advisory Committee to advise the commission on the operation of the Belle Glade Airport recently leased by the city.

The committee will be made up of five members serving staggered three-year terms at no salary.

•Followed the lead of Lake Worth by receiving the state's municipalities, particularly those in Palm Beach County, form a program designed to keep tabs on state and federal legislation affecting cities and curb the trend toward centralized government.

•Passed on the first hearing an ordinance allowing city department heads, with the approval of the city manager, to make purchases up to the value of $100, instead of the present $25 limit, without bringing them before the commission.

•Decided to do some more study on an ordinance prohibiting the parking of buses, trucks and other commercial vehicles on city streets in residential areas.

•Reappointed Hymie Pearlsman and David Hill to the city's civil service board.

•Decided to extend the contract of Big Four Contracting Co. in the streetwork that company is doing in the city's Neighborhood Development Program.

Big Four had already requested, and received, three extensions totalling 108 days because of rainy weather. The last extension expired Aug. 29 and the company was asking for another 30-day extension.

•Held a public hearing, at which no one gave any views on annexing and zoning the Belle Glade Airport into the city limits.

A French visionary named Catherine Thon declared that Robespierre was the Messiah. She was guillotined in 1795.

All-Stars Whip Timesaver

The All-Stars beat Timesaver, the top team in the women's softball league 12-7 Wednesday night to close out the season.

The traditional finale pits 14 of the top players in the league against the league champs each year. The "A" All Stars team had earned the right to meet Timesaver by beating the "B" All Star team 3-2 the previous week.

Timesaver got off to a fast start, scoring seven runs in the first three innings on eight hits and three errors by the All-Stars.

But the All Stars settled down after the third and shut out Timesaver on just one more hit for the last four innings.

Two big innings, the second and the sixth, proved to be the winning margin for the All Stars. They scored five runs in each inning to go along with single runs in the fifth and seventh.

stone house, the stocky Massachusetts man admitted that Sam and he were maintaining a low profile here. "We have been obliged to keep ourselves out of sight & to feel pulses & sound depths. We have to imitate our sentiments, designs & desires by means of other persons, sometimes of one province, sometimes of another."

As we arrived at John's room, shared with Samuel, we could see that the older Adams had been burning the midnight oil. He was now over at the window, tearing a letter into small bits & scattering them in the breeze.

"Destroying the evidence, Samuel?" John quipped.

Cocking a wary eye at us, Sam Adams replied, "Whatever becomes of me, my friends shall never suffer because of my negligence."

Edward Walsh, being a romantic, believes that a man like Adams can do little wrong in the pursuit of freedom of expression.

I'd side up Sam Adams as a man who has an almost contemptible passion for personal liberty & an almost passionate contempt for personal pain.

More Healthy Babies Are Coming

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a biographic series on bio-medical science written at the Harvard School of Medicine as a public service. The school sent a cover letter asking the same question we have: Are today's newspaper readers interested in scientific articles on medicine and medical problems as seen from the researcher's point of view? Let us know what you think. By Lloyd Gottlieb Harvard Medical Writer

Parents who want the best possible chances that their children will be born healthy now have recourse to an increasing number of laboratories in the United States specializing in the pre-natal detection of birth defects. One of the earliest of these laboratories was opened four years ago under the direction of Aubrey Milnsky, M.D., at the Walter E. Fernald State School (for the mentally retarded) in Walham, Mass. Dr. Milnsky, an Assistant Professor of Pediatrics at the Harvard Medical School, is an often consulted expert in pre-natal diagnosis.

Special techniques developed by Dr. Milnsky, and other geneticists include numerous tests designed to screen for genetic defects before and after birth. Most tests are based on the analysis of cells, from the fetus, obtained by a routine procedure called amniocentesis, the drawing off of a sample of amniotic fluid from the uterus.

This can be done under local anesthesia, in an obstetrician's office. Scientists, in labs like Dr. Milnsky's, can learn a great deal from the fetal cells. Many genetic diseases show abnormalities in these amniotic fluid cells which are identical to those in other body cells. There are very few cells (about two teaspoonsful) in the small amount of fluid taken. The laboratory uses them to start an additional population thus ensuring there are enough for use in the various tests for different types of abnormality.

One test involves examination of the chromosomes; the "chains" of genes present in the nucleus of every cell. In humans there are 46 chromosomes (23 pairs). If there are of 46 chromosomes in every cell, the few, for example, may mean dwarfism.

Sometimes, chromosomes will occur in three instead of in pairs. This condition is called trisomy. The discovery of trisomy in pair No. 21 is a warning that the infant will be mongoloid, a common form of abnormality. Mongolism is most likely when the mother is over 35.

In addition to chromosomal anomalies there is an important class known as the sex-linked disorders - so called because the defective gene is carried on one of the two chromosomes that determine sex. Although the mother can carry the faulty gene, in most cases the sex-linked disorders only appear among 50 per cent of male offspring. The disorders, of which there are at least 100, include hemophilia, certain kinds of mental retardation and one type of muscular dystrophy.

The study of fetal cells can help in these cases because it makes possible a sure prediction of the sex of the child. The gene that affects the male child in these cases comes from the mother.

Some inherited diseases are quite common as sickle cell anemia is defect in blood hemoglobin, and cystic fibrosis. Both belong to a third class of defects that are due to a specific chemical abnormality.

The gene controlling the formation of a crucial protein or enzyme is defective. If both parents have same faulty gene there is risk, and prenatal detection of a possible ailment is in order. With these biochemical deficiency diseases the risk is equal no matter what the sex of the fetus. In sickle cell anemia and cystic fibrosis a positive diagnosis before birth is not yet possible. Genetic counselors must rely on predictions of risk based on tests to determine if the parents are carriers. Tay-Sachs disease, also a biochemical disorder, can be definitely diagnosed in the fetus. This fatal illness of the brain and nervous system is usually not apparent at birth.

But, after six months, muscular control deteriorates; deafness and blindness usually follow. Children with Tay-Sachs disease rarely survive past the fifth year. Tay-Sachs disease is now more frequently diagnosed before birth than any other genetic defect.

To predict gross congenital defects such as the absence of limbs or an over- or under-sized head, there must be a way to visualize the unborn child. One useful technique is ultrasound. Sounds of very high frequency, having passed through mother and fetus, leave a pattern on sensitized material that a trained eye can read as a picture.

Also, there are ways of putting dye into the amniotic fluid so that a fetus can be more clearly pictured by X-ray. This is particularly useful in predicting spina bifida. It is even possible to look directly at an unborn baby by introducing a specially adapted optical instrument into the uterus. The doctor can illuminate and observe the fetus through a tube. He can even take photographs and make movies.

Obviously these developments have a great potential for reducing suffering, and also for reducing the considerable cost society now incurs in dealing with birth defects after the fact. Yet, to take a preventive approach to the problem often raises moral questions as important as the medical ones geneticists are learning how to solve.

Dr. Milnsky is concerned with both these sides of the issue. He recognizes and is emphatic that parents have full rights to confidentiality and complete information when they seek genetic counseling. The possibility of routine genetic screening to find carriers even before pregnancy implies the same kind of obligations.

Grady Wins Ballot Place

Edward Grady, it has since selected J.P. Rereks of Green Cove Springs as a gubernatorial candidate.

A wire story appeared Tuesday stating Grady had apparently gathered enough validated signatures but he said Mrs. Gilson received confirmation Tuesday from Duval County, the last large county to report.

"We interviewed more than half a million Floridians to get the 150,000 signatures," Grady said Wednesday.

NOW IS THE TIME

My Friends:

Many people in Belle Glade were surprised when I recently qualified to run for the City Commission. Their surprise was understandable as I discussed this decision with no one other than my family. As much as I would have valued prior consultation with my friends and community leaders, I felt it would be improper to discuss a potential candidacy for the City Commission while maintaining a position as a City employee. Hopefully, none of my friends were surprised by my sincere concern for this town and its people which prompted my decision to run.

I would like to share with you some ideas on the previously undiscussed issues:

(1) Water and Sewer Improvements - the City's engineers are drawing plans and specifications for extensive water and sewer improvements at this very moment. Within the next six months major decisions will have to be made on these proposed projects, including method of financing, scheduling, scope of improvements, customer rate structure, and contractual procedures for construction. I am familiar with the water and sewer system, both from an engineering standpoint and as a practical matter. I feel the City should take all necessary action to insure the most environmentally acceptable sewer system possible, while at the same time take a hard line with regulatory agencies which, through unreasonable attitudes, cripple the housing and building industry in Belle Glade.

(2) Housing - the insufficient supply of adequate housing, in our community is becoming an increasingly disturbing problem, due in part to the building moratorium. Hopefully, sewer improvements will soon release our builders to begin adding to the housing market. Furthermore, some of the older structures in Belle Glade need improvements, which can be accomplished by joint efforts of the City and private enterprise. President Ford recently signed into law the Community Development Act which could provide considerable funding to the City for financing of these improvements. This is a new type program, without the customary "federal strings" attached, and would give broad discretionary powers to the City Commission on the allocation of this money. I have followed this program from its inception and am prepared to make knowledgeable decisions on this program.

(3) City Hall and Fire Station - I support the construction of a new city hall and fire station. I qualify this statement only by saying it should be within budgetary limitations as established by a long range financing plan. Ten years ago a new city hall was labeled "top priority" by the City's leaders at that time. The need has increased drastically in the last few years. The Police Department is in embarrassing shape and the working conditions there are almost unbearable. The existing fire station and city hall should be remodeled to create an adequate police complex. City offices should be combined in one building with facilities to properly serve the citizens. The Fire Department needs additional space to house our firefighting equipment and to provide training areas. I would not support any of these improvements if it would mean the sacrificing of necessary sewer improvements. I am convinced that satisfactory city hall construction and sewer improvements can both be accomplished in an orderly fashion.

(4) Beautification - the City government and its citizens must work together on the beautification of our town. We can make Belle Glade an attractive community—one in which we can all be proud to live. I would support the creation of a special City crew to deal solely with beautification projects, including landscaping, junk car removal, weed and litter control, and cooperative efforts with private beautification projects.

During my 18 years in Belle Glade I have come to know many of you and I can't imagine a better group of people anywhere. We have so much potential in this town of ours. Let us work together and do the things I know we're capable of.

Sincerely,

Thomas Altman

Eugene Harrison The People's Candidate

Dear Citizen,

Recently an article listed in the Palm Beach Post stated that a public hearing will be held Wednesday to increase your property tax. The article dated Sept. 11, 1974, said the hearing will be Sept. 18, 1974, one day after the election.

Pull lever 2A and you will be pulling for:

1. No increase on property taxes
2. City sewerage and water
3. City streets
4. City expansion
5. No new city hall
6. Addition to McDonald Annex
7. Low cost housing & city municipal trailer park

I am by far the more qualified candidate for this seat, which has been shown. I out pulled every candidate in the commission race, including the newly elected Jerry Roberts.

Now I ask the question, why not keep it that way? Pull lever 2A.

KNOW YOUR CANDIDATE

Eugene Harrison was born in South Bay, Florida in 1938. His childhood years were spent in the nearby community of Lake Harbor on a United Sugar Corporation Camp. He attended Roosevelt Elementary School and graduated from Lake Shore High School in Belle Glade. Being mostly self-supported, he worked as a migrant laborer during his high school years.

After completing high school he volunteered for the U.S. Army where he served for four years and earned the rank of Sergeant in nineteen months. He was assigned to the Military Police and served in Germany for 37 months. He ended his military career in 1962.

Upon returning to civilian life he joined the Belle Glade Police Department as a patrolman and served for approximately three years.

Resigning from the Police Department in 1964, he enrolled in Tennessee State University in Nashville, Tennessee where he received a B.S. Degree in Construction Engineering. He then returned to Lake Shore High School as an instructor for three years. He also did graduate work at Florida Atlantic University in Boca Raton, Florida where he earned a M.S. Degree in Guidance and Counseling and certified in Administration and Supervision. He is presently serving as the administrative assistant of the Community Action Migrant Program in the Glades Area.

He is married to Josephine Harrison, a guidance counselor at Gove Elementary School. They have three children, Malcolm G, Michelle 4, and Mark 2. They reside at 1241 S.W. Ave. B Place in Belle Glade.

Harrison was instrumental in getting summer jobs for 167 students in the Glades Area according to their needs regardless of race or national origin.

He is a member of the Omega Psi Phi Fraternity, Inc. Prince Hall Grand Lodge Okeechobee No. 54, and of Palm Beach County Advisory Board to the Board of County Commissioners.

Harrison is totally committed to using his best talents and energies to help Belle Glade become a progressive Model City for all, from the very young to the senior citizens. He feels that this is possible in terms of the total community development and in the area of human relations.

The Belle Glade Herald, Sept. 12, 1974, 1B

Vote! Vote!

Belle Glade voters were particularly busy Tuesday as they were required to cast their ballots not only in the first primary election, being held statewide, but to join in the selection of two new at-large city commissioners to join the city commission. Early turnout at the precinct opening was high but a quick trip by the Belle Glade Fire Station revealed a horse of a different color as voters were jamming the precinct where they decided on the succession to the seats held by Dr. John Grady and W.R. "Ralph" Kirk. On the other hand, five ladies were working at the Glades Republican Club headquarters on S.E. Ave. E to ensure there would be an even larger voter turnout in the second primary and the general election.

Stein Wins Conservation Award

Fritz Stein Jr., a life-long resident of Belle Glade, has been named Soil Conservationist of the Year by the Florida Wildlife Federation, in cooperation with Bears, Roebuck and Co.

conservation activities when he introduced the planting of rice as a cover crop to replenish and rebuild the soil in the Glades.

Stein was nominated by the Palm Beach-Broward Soil and Water Conservation District according to Don Vandergrift, the District director in Lake Worth.

"Actually," Vandergrift said, "Fritz father was using rice as a cover crop before he died but that wasn't the only reason he was nominated."

"The real reason was that he had owners for private conservation installations.

While serving on this committee he introduced a deer plant called deer vetch, which builds soil, furnishes food for livestock and produces food for deer and wildlife.

He took the lead in planting this cover crop in the Big Cypress to supplement the deer food. Since that time, many wildlife lovers have planted the deer vetch from the information received from Stein's planting.

Ray Bolger Due at PBJC

Ray Bolger's World will be the first assembly offering for the Fall Term at Palm Beach Junior College, to be presented at 8 P.M. Friday Sept. 27 in the PBJC Auditorium.

Best known for his role as the Scarecrow in the classic Wizard of Oz, the dancer, comedian and actor has received numerous awards for his work.

These include a Drama Critics Award for Best Musical Comedy Performance, two New York Newspaper Guild Page One Awards, as well as a Decency in Entertainment Award from the Notre Dame Club of Chicago.

Bolger became a Broadway star early in his career in George White's Scandals, where's Charley (later made into a movie) and On Your Tens.

He played in such movies as "The Sweetheart, Three to Make Ready, April in Paris, Babes in Toyland and many more.

Drivers Vote in Teamsters Union

A grand total of 13 truck drivers made sure last week the Teamster Union was welcome in at least one company in the Glades.

Following last year's setback when the truckers at Florida Sugar Corp. on SR 80 voted 9-7 against allowing the Teamsters to represent them, the 17 drivers now employed voted Thursday, 15-4 to have Teamsters Local 8890 of Miami to represent them.

Travis M. Dumas, the president and business manager of the local, said Monday Sonny Campbell was elected shop steward for the 17 drivers at an organizational meeting called Thursday night.

"Friday," Dumas said, "I sent a letter to Mr. King, the company's attorney, asking for a date and time to begin negotiations. Right now, we're just waiting for a date, time and place to begin talking."

Scouts Plan Camporee

Glades Boy Scouts representing ten troops in the Belle Glade, Clewiston and Pahokee areas are making preparations for a camporee Dec. 5-6 in Fort Mayaca according to Executive Director Earl Hartman.

Hartman said the camporee will be the subject of a staff meeting set for 7:30 p.m. tonight in the Belle Glade National Guard Armory as scout leaders and senior scouts discuss the program for the December event, along with the logistics involved.

The camporee will be held in a 50 acre area owned by Mayaca Groves which has been used in the past for camporees.

New Doctor Here

It's a long way from the sand farming town of Turkmen to Belle Glade but Dr. Ahmed Barboosh said the two towns have a lot of un-like the cities he lived in after leaving home.

Barboosh is a physician who settled into Dr. John Grady's medical clinic Aug. 19 and has since put Glades General Hospital into the baby business again.

His specialties are obstetrics-gynecology and gynecological oncology, a jaw breaker of a term meaning he also specializes in treating cancer in the female urogenital system.

He has hospital privileges in Glades General and Everglades Memorial Hospitals, Barboosh said, "and we've started using the first floor of Glades General as an ob-gyn floor. I already have eight patients there."

Voter Night Organized

Wide tracks, an organization committed to helping people in the county who are disabled.

"I met the candidate and voter registration night" at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at Glades Recreation Center at 15th and Australia Ave. in West Palm Beach.

"It is important to register everyone to vote 'yes' in November," Donna Bateman of Wide Tracks said, "for a constitutional amendment guaranteeing that no person shall be deprived of any right because of race, religion or physical handicap, and to interact with the candidates."

Ms. Bateman said transportation will be furnished for everyone who is interested.

Grimes Named

Gregory K. Grimes, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Ralph Grimes of Canal Point, has been named manager of the shoe department at Richards Department Store in Palm Beach Mall according to Mrs. Grimes.

A native of Pahokee, Grimes was graduated from Pahokee High School. He attended Palm Beach Junior College and Palm Beach Atlantic College and served three years in the U.S. Army.

Regular Meeting

Mrs. Terry Miller was the hostess of Sept. 3 for the regular business meeting of Beta Xi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi.

Mrs. Robert Pease, treasurer, presented the 1974-75 budget which was adopted by the chapter members. It was noted a donation had been made to Wee Care.

Plans were formalized for the chapter's annual luncheon buffet on Saturday, Sept. 14.

Mrs. George Garton announced her family would be moving from the area. Mrs. Don Fluka was elected the new president with Mrs. Joe Crockett serving as Vice President.

Mrs. Miller served pecan pie with coffee to her guests which included Mrs. Ken Buchanan, Mrs. Mrs. Lee Burke, Mrs. Tom Buhoe, Mrs. Ron Cameron, Mrs. Joe Crockett, Mrs. Don Fluka, Mrs. George Garton, Mrs. Horace Harris, Mrs. Bob White, Mrs. Ben Painter, Mrs. Alvaro Sanchez and Mrs. Robert Pease.

Beware on Deals On House Siding

Because of the year-around heat, the high humidity and, in many areas, salt water air, Florida homes are subjected to tremendous climatic abuse. Who can blame a disgruntled homeowner for being vulnerable to an offer of maintenance-free, stay-beautiful aluminum house siding at a ridiculously low promotion price?

The usual pitch is to tell you that your house will be used in an advertising program and in consideration of your cooperation you can buy aluminum siding at a greatly reduced price," explains William E. McMahon, assistant director of the Florida Division of Consumer Services.

McMahon warned prospective buyers of siding to be especially wary of filling out "credit information" forms.

"These may be so cleverly designed that you think you're simply providing information but you're actually signing a sales contract," he said. "There have even been cases of an interested party filling out what he thought was a credit form but which turned out to be a second mortgage on his home; a fact realized by the homeowner only when he is faced with foreclosure proceedings."

Homeowners should be very cautious when dealing with firms from out of town or, even worse, from out of state, despite the fact that they claim to represent well-known and reputable aluminum firms, according to McMahon.

"If you're thinking of having siding put on your house, deal with an established local firm, get the names of some of their customers and check with those customers about service, workmanship, warranties and quality generally," he said. "And be extremely leery of any offer to do the job at what seems to be an unbelievably low price."

"It's the same old story of not getting anything for nothing," McMahon said. "We've said it many times but it's still a valid yardstick: If you think something sounds too good to be true, change are you're right."

Whatever the product, McMahon urged consumers to read all contracts carefully and to be cautious of any contracts written in very small type and in capital, legible language.

"Consumers should also be aware that the law requires all contracts signed anywhere but in the seller's place of business to include the buyer's right to cancel clause," he said. "This gives the buyer the right to change his mind and call the deal off by notifying the seller within three working days after the contract is signed."

"The clause guarantees the buyer the right to cancel the contract within the time period without penalty," McMahon said. "This is fine with legitimate sellers but the gypsies and con artists, who operate on the fringes of the law, will take advantage of your money and all you can do is be thankful you weren't taken for more."

For additional information or to register a consumer complaint, call or write the Florida Department of Agriculture & Consumer Services, Tallahassee, Florida 32304.

WHO'S AHEAD

"It's not whether you win or lose but how you play the game." Chess competition within the rules, "May the best man win." Tournament of others who may not share our patriotic enthusiasm. The realization that everybody cannot be exactly to our liking all the time, "Give and Take" and Cooperative Effort. These are all lessons that once learned make for better citizens in our great American Society and we, as a nation, will be ahead.

Our precious heritage embodied in the flag of the United States, is as alive today as it was when written for the ages in the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution. It stands for all the world to see and for all Americans to cherish. And in the hands of Washington, Jefferson, and Hamilton, we, too, have a right, a duty, and a desire, we must cherish as to the nation, we should not disagree on the goal—that of preserving the greatest democratic society the world has ever known.

But it is a symbol, one of our best, but of history, the history of our people and the willingness to live and die for it. Surely this willing, one is with us still, because it is the spirit of the founding fathers.

It is, support of the public education system, which is the backbone of our nation.

Dental Unit Makes Changes

One inter-department transfer and two additions to the faculty have been announced by Dr. Hal C. Hutchins, chairman of the Dental Health Education Services at Palm Beach Junior College.

Marion L. Weisenborn, R.D.H., (Registered Dental Hygienist), who received her training at Ohio State University, has been transferred from Dental Hygiene Instructor, PBJC, to the Dental Assisting Program and in addition, will be the coordinator of the Dental Research Clinic.

Janice E. Hayes, a PBJC graduate will be a Dental Assisting Instructor at PBJC.

Diane B. Lindsay, who received a B.S. from Loyola University of the South, New Orleans, La. and earned her M.S. from the University of Missouri, Columbia, Mo., will teach Dental Hygiene.

Diplomat Goes Free

In Miami, a minor diplomat was stopped by police who said he was drunk, had defective equipment, no drivers license, no inspection sticker, and was changing lanes improperly by weaving in and out at high speeds thus endangering himself and others.

He was, in fact, a potential killer. But he wasn't even booked.

The police called his associate who sent someone to take him home.

In Turkey there are three American girls, who they say they were driving a van for a friend, were given life imprisonment because hashish was found in a compartment in the roof of the van.

It has been said that all people are equal, and that some are more equal than others. Perhaps this proves it once again.

Hints for Food Shoppers

In these days of runaway food prices, general inflation, and well-meant complications like unit pricing, there's no doubt the American food shopper needs all the help she (or he) can get.

Such help sometimes comes from quite unlikely sources. You might expect helpful hints from consumers' unions, food processors, civic organizations, and the like, but not from a big electronics manufacturer.

Expectations to the contrary, Casio, Inc., the pioneer electronic calculator company, has come up with a "baker's dozen" ways to help slash the shrinking supermarket dollar.

Here they are:

1. Don't shop on an empty stomach; pushing your cart around when you're hungry invariably makes you buy more food items.
2. Beware of stores that give trading stamps. Somebody has to pay the cost of these giveaways, and it's usually you.
3. Remember that "convenience" foods—those that are prepared in advance—just have to cost more than those you prepare yourself. Nobody works for nothing.
4. Look out for packages that look big but may contain less value. Unit pricing labels are a big help here, but often the various combinations of weights and prices are so complicated that some mechanical help is good idea. (Not surprisingly, Casio suggests its own "mini" calculator, which can be carried in pocket or purse as a good way to supplement your arithmetic talent.)

5. Buy "store brands" whenever possible, but don't pass up name brand specials, which can often save you a substantial amount when your timing is right.

6. Pay with cash rather than by check. For one thing, the cost of check handling is passed on to you by the store. Second, when you're laying out hard cash, you tend to be a lot more careful about how much you spend.

7. Get to know the meaning of food gradings. For example, when comparing eggs of different sizes and prices use the following rule: Buy extra large rather than large eggs if the price difference per dozen is less than 1/3 of the price of extra large; buy large rather than medium if the price difference is less than 1/3 of the price of large; buy medium rather than small if the difference is less than 1/3 of the price of medium. Here's another case where a Casio-mini calculator would make life easier.

8. Don't be talked into buying large quantities of a food item just because it is priced, let's say, "10 for 99 cents." If it's a perishable item, you are very likely to wipe out your "big" one cent saving over the price of 9 cents each by spoilage.

9. Make sure when buying meat that you take into account the amount of fat, gristle, or bone which can't be eaten and which creates a false impression of the real price per pound you are paying.

10. Use your Casio calculator to keep a running total of your purchases as you shop the aisles. That way you can correct any excesses before the moment of truth at the checkout.

11. Use your home freezer to help you take advantage of specials on such perishable items as bread, meat, and so forth. You can save a lot by buying in quantity when the price is low-provided, of course, you have enough freezer space to hold your bargains.

12. Stay away from "convenience" aids packages for such foods as dry cereal, snack food, or canned juices. A simple calculation of the comparative price per ounce will show you that you're paying more for the box or can (which you can't eat) than for what's inside.

13. Look for the date now imprinted on many perishable foods like dairy products, baked goods, and others to be sure you're buying things you know are fresh. If, in spite of your efforts, you get something unusable, take it back to the store for a refund or credit.

Food shopping today is a calculated risk. Use the advice, but following the above rules and using your head should increase your chances of survival.

PBJC Enrolls 7,667 Students

Palm Beach Junior College has enrolled 7,667 students in the Fall Term, the largest number of regular students in the history of the college.

The new record is 866 more than the previous record enrollment of 7,071 in the Fall Term a year ago.

Increases were in both day and evening categories, with the number of day students growing by 100 and evening students by 496 from a year ago.

Enrollment at the Lake Worth campus totalled 4,499 but enrollment in the Gardens Center, Belle Glade Center and South Center and of students with classes at more than one center became a very significant factor, totalling 1,708.

The largest number in the Centers was at the Gardens Center, where 560 were enrolled, but Belle Glade, where more day students are enrolled, chalked up nearly 1,000 more credit hours than the Gardens Center with 398 students enrolled.

Another unusual feature of the enrollment was the fact that evening students, at 1,850, outnumbered day students, at 3,717. This is the first such occurrence in the Fall Term.

Although outnumbered by evening students, day students continued to account for far more of the total credit hours, 54,106 compared to 43,560. Part-time students account for 20,836 credit hours.

WHY WORRY

Mark Twain once said, "I am an old man and have known many troubles, but most of them never happened. In one sense, Mark Twain made a lot of sense. We worry about things which rarely happen.

But as an insurance agent, I can tell you one thing. Personal or financial catastrophe normally strikes suddenly. We seldom worry in advance about death, accident, theft, fire. But in a split second, your life can change from normalcy to disaster.

My purpose is not to request that all readers start worrying about catastrophes. Conversely, I want you NOT to worry about such things. It takes so little time and money to protect yourself against the financial and psychological devastation that can occur from a sudden personal or material loss. Why not drop into our office and discuss your needs and risks. We may not be able to prevent a calamity from happening, but we can help ease its financial burden and personal anguish that will surely follow.

Big Year Ahead with Spartans

Williams 'Expecting'

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is a reprint of an article which appeared last week in the Tampa Tribune. Anthony Williams was a star player for the GHS Raiders three years ago.

By Jim Henderson
Tribune Sports Writer

Anthony Williams says he's ready to have that big year he wants to badly.

Williams, a junior flanker at the University of Tampa, feels that better exposure and a chance to catch more of quarterback Fred Solomon's passes will lead to the kind of 1974 the Spartans expect of him.

"I'm not the greedy type," Williams said after a recent UT workout. "If I see the ball maybe 4-5 times a game, I know I can have a big year and I think it'll help the team as well."

Williams admitted that, that at one time he was a bit greedy. In fact, he was, in his own words, "on a big ego trip."

That was when the 6-3, 182 pound speedster first came to Tampa from Glades Central High School in Belle Glade.

"I caught 15 touchdowns as a senior year in high school," he said. "I thought I was the No. 1 receiver in the state. I had gotten a lot of scholarship offers. I was on a big ego trip."

Ironically, one of those scholarships offers DIDN'T come from Tampa.

"No," he said, "Tampa didn't recruit me. In fact I didn't know anything about the school and didn't much care. I felt like I was going to Iowa State."

"But the day before the high school all-star game, I lost my mother," he said sadly. "I wanted to get as far away as possible, but at the same time, I felt like I should stay close to home to help my family. There are 11 of us."

It was in the All-Star game that Tampa first contacted me. They said they were very interested. That's how I got here."

Williams, ready to beat the world to death, found himself behind the super Mark Wakefield at split end and his freshman year.

"What can I say?" he questioned. "Mark has the finest pair of hands and the greatest concentration for the ball of anyone I've been associated with. I just had to bide my time, that's all."

Perhaps as a sign of things to come, Williams caught two passes that first year—both for six points.

And the following spring, he was switched to flanker opposite Wakefield and won a starting job. But it wasn't to last.

"I wound up sharing the position with Stringer (Bob)," he said, "and I was pretty downhearted. I thought my sophomore year was going to be a big one."

Statistic-wise, it was better, 12 catches for 197 yards and two touchdowns.

But, as Williams said, "things just didn't happen" the way he wanted and expected.

Then, between last fall and last spring, Williams, according to head coach Dennis Fryzel, "matured," and won the job back again. That's where he is now.

And the well-spoken UT standout feels he's going to stay there, despite a recent move by the Spartans of putting 6-5 frosh sensation Mike Harris behind him.

Everybody thought that would be bad for me," Williams said, "but I don't think so. I like the competition, the pressure. You have to be able to play under those conditions if you're going to make it."

And Williams wants to make it. All the way to the pros.

"I honestly think I have the tools to be a pro," he said. "I want to lose a couple more pounds—get down to 190—and cut a little off my 40 time. My fastest in camp has been 4.7, but I ran a 4.8 in high school."

Becoming a Pro will give Williams the money he needs to pursue some sort of off-the-field job in social work. He's currently a sociology major at UT.

"When I tell people I'm a sociology major, they sort of look down a little," he said, "and say things like, 'boy, not much money in that.'"

Well, there isn't, he admitted. "But that isn't everything. I'm really into people, especially kids. I love being with them and working with them. I hope to spend my life doing it."

Obviously, the ego trip is over for Anthony Williams. Throw him the ball, Fred. Throw him the ball.

Lots of Gas Ahead

Florida tourist-oriented businesses might grasp at the straw of hope thrown out by the Federal Energy Admintration recently. The FEA computers are pointing toward plenty of gasoline and enough fuel to keep power plants going and to heat homes this winter. There may not even be spot shortages of gasoline.

The computer readout shows that current energy savings are exceeding the projections of the conservation planners.

But, there is a disturbing factor. Savings in fuel to date can not be said to be because of voluntary conservation on the part of energy users.

Higher prices for all things appear to have had the most effect on the fact that there is more fuel. The motorist is paying almost twice as much for fuel, and higher electric bills encourage turning off marginal equipment and lighting. If, in fact, gasoline and power costs were the only reasons for a good fuel supply, we in Florida could look forward to a "better future."

But, the dark cloud in the glow of the national product. That is, industrial plants have slowed down in production and that has resulted in major fuel savings not only for power but also because oil has not been flowing into the petro-chemical segment of industry.

In England, a borrowed chestnut was once supposed to cure rheumatism.
